THE CONFLICT RESUMED

Contestants in the Davis Will Case Assemble in Court

THOSE WHO SHALL JUDGE

Hosts of Attorneys and Witnesse Ready for the Great Contest-A Jury Empaneled-The War Begun.

Butte, July 27.—The Davis will trial began to-day in Department I. of the district court in the presence of a crowd of lawyers and reporters. The first day has been occupied in getting a jury. This was accomplished in much quicker time than had been anticipated, the jury being selected by the middle of the afternoon. The questioning of the jurymen was done by Judge Stapleton for the contestants and Judge Dixon for the proponents. Each side was allowed four peremotory challenges. A remarkably good set of jurymen had, to all appearances, been selected, and there was no apparent prejudice in any of them that would not give a decision in accordance with the prejudice in any of them that would not give a decision in accordance with the law and evidence in the case.

In their first peremptory challenge the contestants excused 1, J. J. ffries, and in the first peremptory challenge of the proponents, William Rule was excused. This consumed the time until recess, and at 2 o'clock the examination of jurors was continued.

A. Fred. Wey admitted that he had A. Fred. Wey admitted that he had some conversation in regard to the Davis case, but had formed no opinion as to whether the will should be admitted to probate or not. He thought he could decide in the matter fairly. He had no interests with either party that would affect him in deciding the matter. Judge Stapleton for the contestants is equired whether John A. Davis had not boarded at the McDermott hotel with him, and Mr. Wey admitted that he had boarded with him during the past two years. Mr. Wey admitted that he had boarded with him during the past two years. Mr. Wey admitted also that he had business connections with the First National bank.

wey admitted also that he had business connections with the First National bank. Mr. Wey said he did not desire to be a juryman as he is very busy, both in his regular hotel business and in preparing for the new hotel now being creeted. He denied that he had offered to make any bets or had made any bets over the issue of the trial, nor had he heard of any having been made in his hotel.

Mr. Wey was challenged for cause by the contestants, but this was resisted by the proponents. Mr. Wey was then questioned by Judge McHatton. To the judge Mr. Wey said that he had no opinion upon any of the points of issue, as to whether or not the will is genuine or whether or not the will has been revoked. The challenge was then overruled by the judge. An exception was taken to the ruling of the court.

It was then the second peremptory challenge was then overruptory challenge was then overruptory challenge was then the second peremptory challenge was then the second peremptory challenge was then the second peremptory challenge was the property of the contest of the conte judge. An exception was taken to the ruling of the court.

It was then the second peremptory challenge for the contestants, and A. Fred Wey was excused.

Charles G. Farrell was next examined. He had I ved in Butte 13 years and is in the foundry business. He knew John A. Davis by sight, but had never talked with him or had any business connections with him. He did his banking business at Clark's bank. He had never formed an opinion as to the merits of the case, and could decide the question on the law and evidence submitted. He had heard some talk to the effect that the estate ought to remain in Butte, but he had no feeling in that matter himself. Mr. Farrell was passed for cause.

The proponent's second peremptory challenge excused John Parker.

William H. Patterson was next examined. He had known John A. Davis six or seven years, but had no business transactions with him. He said that he bas business transactions with him. He said that he bas business transactions with A. J. Davis, jr., or rather with the bank, owing a little there. He said he thought be had expressed an opinion when he read the will over in the paper. He did not think that he has any opinion now. He said he has no bias or prejudice agatust either party in the case. If selected as a juryman he would or prejudice against either party in the case. If selected as a juryman he would decide entirely according to the evidence and law in the case. Mr. Patterson was passed for cause.

It was then the third peremptory challenge for the contestants and W. McC.

White was excused.

John C. Heilig was next examined. He had slight acquaintance with both John A. and A. J. Davis, jr., but no business connections with them. He had formed no opinion as to the merits in the case and had no bias or leaning in either way and could give a decision according to the law and evidence. The juryman was passed for cause.

It was then the third peremptory challenge for the proponents, and William H.

Patterson was excused. R D Gould was then examined. He has been in Butte three years. He had no business transactions with any of the parties concerned. He was also without parties concerned. He was also without bias or prejudice and could give a fair de-cision in the matter. He was passed. It was the fourth and last peremptory challenge for the contestants, and several mitutes were consumed in close consul-tation among the multitude of lawyers for the contestants. Then W. D. Fenner was the centestants. Then w. b. Febber was excused.

Thomas Scaddor was examined. He is a resident of Centerville, and had been engaged in mining there for three and one-half years. He is not acquainted with either of the Davises or wan James A. Taibett, and had no tusiness connections with any of them. He was passed for cause.

for cause.

In their fourth and last peremptory challenge, the proponents excused James W, Tucker.

. Tucker. James Davidson was then examined. He had hved in Butte since 1865 and is in the real estate business. He had no busi-ness transactions with any of the parties concerned of late. He does his banking with Clark Brothers. He had, however, formed an opinion as to which should prevail in the case. Hence the jaror was allenged for cause. The chattenge was sustained.

John F. Pascoe was next examined. He is a resident of Centerville, in the saloon business. He is not acquainted with the Davises or Mr. Talbout except by sight, He had never formed or expressed an opinion in regard to the matter, and had desire as to which side should prevail.

The jury as finally selected is made up of Moses Arnold, Charles Eckerle, Philip A. Gamer, George W. Newkirk, George Erickson, W. W. Adams, J. D. Jenks, Charles G. Farrell, John C. Heilig, R. D., Gould, Thomas Scaddon and John F. Pascee.

F. Pascoc.

The jury was sworn, and the court then expressed his views on the mode of procedure in this nearing. He said the statute provides that the contestant in cases of this kind is the planniff. It would, in the court's opinion, be the proper way for the proponent first to introduce the case and make out a prima facte case and rest, Then the contestants would be heard, and afterward the proponents once more. This he believed ponents once more. This he believed would be the proper mode of precedure. The jury will be only asked to determine as to the points raised in the contest. Colonel ingersoli thought the propo-nents should be required to introduce all their evidence at fact, so, that the their evidence at first, so that the con-testants could bring rebuttal on all the evidence of the proponents. The judge, however, did not agree with the colonel on this point. Warren Toole, for the contestants, also thought it would be prejudicial to the contestants to have the burden of proof rest on the contestants and at the same time not give them the opportunity for rebuttal. He desired an adjournment until to-morrow morning, in order to present authorities on this matter. Judge McHatton said he was wilting to hear argument in the matter. The judge said further that he proposed to give each side a reasonable hearing and a reasonable time. But beyond that he did not propose to go. He did not propose to have the case postponed from time to time, but he would see that each side had a full and fair hearing.

case postponed from time to time, but he would see that each side had a full and fair hearing.

"What is your disposition in regard to the jury?" inquired the judge.

"We are willing to trust them," said Colonel Ingersoll. "We don't want to punish them by imprisoning them."

Colonel Sanders in a lengthy speech, said he thought it would be a hardship to keep the jury together during such a long trial and was willing to trust them.

"Well, we've already said that beforehand," said Mr. Ingersoll. "I den't believe in a stump speech on this sui ject."

The court admonished the jury not to converse with any person on any matter connected with the case, and not to form an opinion on it until the case is concluded.

The jury was permitted to separate and the court adjourned until 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

EXAMINING THE CHARGES

The Police Commission Again an Investigating Board.

WINNIPEG'S STORY TABLED

Adjournment Taken to This Morning in the Cases of Anderson and McNally – Michael Mahen on the Force.

BUTTE, July 27.-The police commission met this afternoon for the purpose of investigating the charges against Officers McNally and Anderson, and also inci-dentally to look into the complaint made against the day force, collectively, by "Winnipeg," the backman. As usual the council chamber was cleared of everybody except the members of the inquisi-tion, and the meeting was presumably then called to order.

Marshal Daum was one of those who was Marshal Daum was one of those who was ordered to withdraw when Mayor Mueller said business would begin, and took up a position on the register in the halt and regaled a STANDARD reporter with funny stories. Finally the door leading to the come of chamber was slightly opened and the face of Aiderman Grundy was visible for a moment as he catied to the marshal to step inside. The marshal did as requested, the door closed, a key turned in the lock and the reporter was left alone. After another lengthy wait the door opened again and Alderman Barrett waiked out. He said the meeting had adjourned and informed the reporter that he could enter. On the table in front of the mayor lay a number of papers, one of which his honor picked up. Then he told the reporter that the commission had decided to table the complaint of "Winnipeg' and then adjourned until to-morrow morning at he o'clock to take up the cases against Anderson and McNally in order to secure the attendance of withesses. order to secure the attendance of

From another source the reporter learned more of the proceedings of the inquisitorial body. He learned that after the hackman's case had been disposed of it was moved to begin the trial of Officer Anderson, notwithstanding that neither the accused hor any of his witnesses were present. Marshal Daum protested were present. were present. Marshal Daum proteste against such manifestly unfair proceedings and preaded with the commission for fair play for the police man. He said it would be urjusted. and something entirely unbeard of to try a man without giving him a chance to defend himself against the charge that might be brought against him. In the matter of the charges against McNaily, under a cloud for arresting G. F. Woolston, the marshal made a like pica, as one of the aldermen moved to take up that case, also without the acoused being present, and asked that no fletion be taken until the police court had passed on the case against Woolston, then under trial.
